Tibetan Buddhists

China has arrested and imprisoned innumerable Buddhists belonging to the Tibetan ethnic group, including many monks, for their religious and/or other non-violent protest activities. HRWF Int'l has documented a limited number of cases related to the exercise of freedom of religion¹ as detailed information about the victims is usually not available.

Collective arrests

Gendun Choekyi NYIMA and his parents

¹ Others have been arrested and sentenced to long prison terms or to death for their involvement in political non-violent or violent activities, according to the Chinese authorities, or as human rights defenders but the lack of access to reliable information did not allow HRWF Int'l to check the nature of their activities and the veracity of the official accusations. It was also difficult to identify cases in which the victims were imprisoned for purely exercising their freedom of religion. A margin of error is not excluded.

Date of birth: 25th April 1989

Place of residence: Lhari County, Tibet

Date and place of arrest: On 17th May 1995, Gendun Choekyi Nyima and his parents disappeared

Charges: Usurping the title of reincarnation of the 10th Panchen Lama which was granted to him by the Dalai Lama, an “illegal and invalid” decision.

Statement of the defendants: They claim that Gendun Choekyi Nyima was named by the Dalai Lama as the 11th incarnation of the Panchen Lama of Tibet.

Other information: He was kidnapped by Chinese authorities three days after he was announced to be the reincarnation of the 10th Panchen Lama, and has not been seen in public since 17th May 1995. Another Panchen Lama has been chosen by the Chinese government, but he has not been approved by the Buddhist community faithful to the Dalai Lama. In September 2015, a senior Chinese official said that he is “living a normal life,” and does not want to be disturbed.
