

Roman Catholics

The Roman Catholic Church is the largest body of Christians with more than 1.2 billion members worldwide. The term 'Catholic' (from Greek καθολικισμός, meaning 'throughout the whole') applies broadly to the beliefs and practices of particular churches that claim continuity with the apostles. The term 'Roman' designates those Catholics who are in full communion with the Bishop of Rome, widely known as the Pope.

The Pope (Latin papa for 'father') is the jurisdictional head of the Catholic Church in Rome, an authority that the Church claims has been handed down in unbroken succession from apostolic times. The Gospel of Matthew (16:19) asserts that Jesus entrusted St Peter with 'the keys of the kingdom of heaven,' thereby designating him the chief apostle who would eventually become the first Bishop of Rome. Roman Catholics accept the supremacy of the Pope on all matters of faith and doctrine.

However, the doctrine of papal supremacy has been vigorously contested over the course of its history, leading to conflicts, schisms, and harsh measures to contain dissent. Not surprisingly, any claim to universal authority is bound to draw the ire of conflicting interests, whether in the religious sphere or the political. Historically, the papacy has fostered a climate that allowed the Church to amass considerable power and form unsavoury alliances with monarchs, tyrants and oppressive institutions. In effect, the Roman Catholic Church has perpetuated the culture of imperial Rome, from which it acquired its institutional character.

In modern times, the power that the Church once wielded has been sharply reduced. Even still, its image as a powerful and influential institution persists, whether real or perceived. In fact, the 'Holy See' (Sancta Sedes in Latin) functions as a sovereign state, maintains diplomatic relations with other states and is recognised as a sovereign entity under international law. This has been problematic for governments that host Roman Catholics in their countries and view loyalty to the Holy See as incompatible with loyalty to the state.

Teachings

The principal teachings of the Roman Catholic Church are shared by other Catholic traditions, which are summarised in the Nicene Creed and the Apostles' Creed. These include a belief in one God, the Holy Trinity, and the centrality of Christ, the Son of God and Redeemer of the world.

The Church also shares with other Catholic traditions a liturgical and sacramental approach to its common worship, allowing for wide variances in its cultural expression. The central celebration of all Catholics is the Holy Eucharist, the sacrament in which believers are said to share in the very life of Christ, who is present in the bread and the wine that is shared.

Catholic Social Teaching places great emphasis on works of mercy and justice, which finds lively and diverse expression in many countries throughout the world. The Roman Church is the largest non-governmental provider of education and medical services in the world.

However, the most clearly definable difference between Roman Catholicism and all other Christian traditions is one of authority. The Church maintains that Christ gave authority to his apostles and their successors to defend ‘the deposit of faith,’ which circumscribes matters of doctrine and practice for the faithful.

Controversies

The Roman Catholic Church is one of the oldest religious institutions in the world and has played a prominent role in the history of Western civilisation. This alone has drawn suspicion of the Church being an agent of Western influence and, consequently, a target for suppression. Moreover, the Church acts as a sovereign state entity in the form of the Holy See, having a centralised government, keeping diplomatic relations with other states, and even having its own sovereign territory, officially known as the Vatican City State.

It is the Church’s position as a sovereign state in international affairs that has provoked friction with some other states in the modern era. Notably, the government in China established in 1957 the Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association (CCPA), a group which seeks to place all Catholic Church structures under the sole authority of the Chinese state. The following year Pope Pius XII condemned the activities of the CCPA and declared that Roman Catholic bishops participating in the consecration of CCPA-appointed bishops would be excommunicated.

Religious associations in China must be registered with the government or else face the possibility of suppression. The Religious Affairs Bureau exercises supervision over the activities of the CCPA. All Catholic structures that remain loyal to Rome are under ‘foreign influence’ and, therefore, outlawed. The Chinese authorities only recognise those clerics who openly declare their independence from the Vatican and swear allegiance to the communist regime. As a result, all other Roman Catholic churches and clerics have been forced underground.

For instance, Bishop James Su Zhimin of Baoding was arrested in 1996 for refusing to join the CCPA. He has been marked as a ‘counterrevolutionary’ by the Chinese government. Bishop Su escaped detention in 1997 and has been in hiding ever since. He is now 82.

On 8th November 2015, the body of Father Pedro Yu Heping was found in the Fen River in Shanxi Province. The circumstances of his death remain a mystery. Father Yu was an underground priest who had once operated a popular Catholic website in China.

In Pakistan, Roman Catholics are also victims, alongside other Christians and Muslims, of the social abuse of the blasphemy laws.

Roman Catholics in Prison

China

In China, a dozen Roman Catholic clerics have been kept in detention or gone missing after their arrest for many years.

Fr. CUI Tai, an underground priest of the diocese of Xuanhua (Hebei), disappeared while in police custody on 22nd June 2011 after members of the government's Religious Affairs Bureau dragged him away from home. Since that time there has been no information on his whereabouts.

Msgr. James Su ZHIMIN (age 84), an underground bishop of Baoding (Hebei), was arrested in Baoding (Hebei Province) in 1997. The charges remain unknown, but he was considered a 'counter-revolutionary.' Since the 1950s he has refused to join the Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association. In all he has already spent 40 years in captivity. He was last seen by his relatives in 2003 in a hospital surrounded by police.

Msg. Julius JIA Zhiguo (age 80), bishop of Zhengding (Hebei), was arrested in May 2015 and detained for 12 days without any official charges. It is believed that he was jailed because he had ordained several priests without the approval of the state. The bishop has been detained countless times for refusing to join the state-sanctioned Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association.

Fr. LIU Honggen, an underground priest of the diocese of Baoding (Hebei), was arrested in December 2006 for refusing to join the Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association. He was released in August 2015 after spending eight years in prison without trial. He was reportedly arrested again later on and has not been seen since.

Thaddeus MA Daqin (Bishop of Shanghai), former vice-chair of the Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association, has been under house arrest at the Sheshan Regional Seminary in a Shanghai suburb since 7th July 2012 after resigning from the state-controlled institution.

Msgr. Cosma SHI Enxiang (age 84), an underground bishop of Yixian (Hebei), was arrested on 13th April 2001 in Beijing. On 30th January 2015, a city employee commented to family members about Msgr. Shi Enxiang's death. News spread quickly throughout the Catholic community, but authorities later denied any knowledge of the cleric's death. Msgr. Shi Enxiang has intermittently suffered long periods in prison and house arrest from 1957 until 1980.

Fr. SONG Wanjun was arrested on 7th August 2013 in Qiaodong District, Zhangjiakou City, (Hebei Province) and sentenced to three years. Official charges are unknown.

Msgr. WU Qinjing was arrested in November 2007 for being secretly ordained as a bishop of the Diocese of Zhouzhi without the permission of the local Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association. Since then he had been kept under house arrest in the minor seminary in Xian. In July 2015, his ordination was approved by the Chinese government and the CCPA. He has since been formally installed as bishop of Zhouzhi.

Pakistan

Muslims, Christians and others have all been victimised by Pakistan's blasphemy laws. Contravening these laws can result in death or life imprisonment as stipulated in Section 295-A, B, C and 298-A, B, C of the Penal Code. In practice people are sentenced to death are not put to death but incarcerated indefinitely.

Human Rights Without Frontiers has identified a series of cases concerning Christians who were sentenced to life imprisonment in blasphemy cases; however, the sources of information often fail to mention if they were Roman Catholic, Anglican or Protestant Christians. Conclusions

Over the centuries Roman Catholics have had a long history of suffering and repression for multiple reasons. In our times it is especially in China that they are officially restricted in their activities. According to Chinese officials, these restrictions are necessary to contain the potential threat which Catholics who remain loyal to Rome pose to the ideology and authority of the state. It is extremely doubtful that the Vatican City State could mount a significant challenge to China; however, Chinese policy is sometimes more strongly shaped by political paranoia than it is by good sense. More than half century on from the hardening of government restrictions on religion, a review of China's position toward such groups is long overdue.
